You are monetarily eligible for Unemployment Benefits.

The amount you will receive is based on your reported wages for the last four completed calendar quarters before your claim begins. This is called your Primary Base Period.

If you were paid more than $9,961.34 of wages between 10/1/2022 and 12/3/2022, your benefit amount could be higher if you choose to use your Alternate Base Period.

Your Alternate Base Period uses wages paid during the three most recently completed calendar quarters, plus the weeks between the last completed quarter and the date of your claim begins.

If you want to apply to use your Alternate Base Period, you must provide proof that your wages were equal to or more than $9,961.34 between 10/1/2022 and 12/3/2022, such as check stubs or W-2s.

You must include a signed copy of this form with your proof and send it to the address below.

I confirm that information on the enclosed proof of wages is correct.
